Made in the hills of Andalusia

Studio Wild Orange was born in the old stables of a farmhouse in the south of Spain. Founded by Ingrid Vermulst, a Dutch designer, former hotel owner with roots in interior design and a love for clay. The studio makes ceramic objects for interiors that have something to say.

Every piece is built by hand. No moulds, no mass production. A maximum of 100 pieces leave the studio each year. Each one is examined, questioned, and only released when it feels right — when Ingrid would want it in her own home.

Her work is the search for a balance between geometrical forms and organic shapes.

"In a world that moves too fast, I make things that are meant to stay."
